

A Commitment To Quality

More than 100 years ago, George S. Parker founded a company with the mission of making a better pen. Parker succeeded in his quest, and today his company's products are recognized worldwide as symbols of writing excellence.

Throughout its history, Parker Pen has demonstrated an unrelenting commitment to quality. Parker's exquisite craftsmanship is legendary, and is evident in the most detailed facets of its writing instruments. But quality does not stop with its products. Quality permeates every aspect of operations at Parker, from customer service to sales and distribution.

The result of Parker Pen's exacting standards is simple: writing instruments of incomparable quality. Which is why when people become owners of Parkers, they cherish them forever.
